Charleston, SC- Crescent Homes announces the extension of their philanthropy program, GIVE, to the Nashville area, partnering with 5 local nonprofits.

Crescent Homes was founded on the commitment to be progressive, to continuously strive for improvement and to always go beyond the standard. GIVE extends that mission beyond home building to spread awareness and goodwill throughout the communities in which it builds. The program works with various charities within the area to offer monetary support by donating $250 for every home sale with no annual cap. Homebuyers are able to choose which foundation will receive a contribution in their name. The Nashville GIVE program will select 5 new foundations every six months.

Crescent Homes first launched GIVE in Charleston this past April with great success. After the initial three months of the program, Crescent Homes founder and CEO Ted Terry presented $21,750 to five local Charleston nonprofits including Camp Happy Days, Charleston Animal Society, Habitat for Humanity, Be A Mentor, and Ronald McDonald House.

“The GIVE program speaks to our commitment to have a positive impact on the places in which we build. The program allows us to broaden our reach by giving back to the community that supports us.”

-Ted Terry, Owner & CEO

Charleston’s largest private homebuilder expanded to Nashville in 2016 and currently boasts 6 communities within Middle Tennessee. Nashville was a natural next step for Crescent Homes, which is dedicated to building homes where people want to live. GIVE Nashville will launch with the following nonprofits:

Habitat for Humanity of Greater Nashville

Habitat for Humanity does much more than simply build secure homes; the foundation partners with families to repair homes, revitalize neighborhoods, donate small loans for home improvements, provide financial education and advocate for better laws in disaster prevention.

Nashville Humane Society

One of the oldest service organizations in Nashville, the Humane Society affiliate is dedicated to protecting the wellbeing of animals, placing over 4,000 healthy animals in loving homes each year.

American Cancer Society - Nashville

The American Cancer Society provides support through hundreds of services and programs to those battling cancer.

Second Harvest Foodbank of Middle Tennessee

The Second Harvest Foodbank's first mission is to feed the hungry, their second is to end hunger in the community. Every dollar donated translates to 4 meals.

Book 'em

Book 'em promotes literacy and bolsters young readers through book donations, volunteer events and literacy awareness.

"Since our expansion to Middle Tennessee, the Nashville market has welcomed us with open arms. We are honored to be in a position to give back to this incredible community through the GIVE program, sending aid to these worthy foundations."

-Ted Terry, Owner & CEO

After six months, GIVE Nashville will present the donations to each of these worthy foundations, and select 5 new nonprofits to raise funds for. The program's goal is to reach as many local groups as possible, spreading awareness and goodwill within the region. As Crescent Homes continues to expand throughout the southeast, the company intends to launch GIVE in all of their divisions.
